This stellar performance was set in motion by our S2B2C model, which has continued to drive our multi-faceted growth strategy, and has allowed us to lead the charge in the digital transformation of the healthcare system in the new era of industry internet in China."

"The advantages of our S2B2C model continues to attract new partners and has led to the rapid growth of our ecosystem in 2020. The number of global and domestic pharmaceutical companies we have a direct relationship with totaled over 330 as of 4Q 2020, while our network of retail pharmacy customers is now the largest virtual network in China. With the support of our eight regional fulfillment centers, we provide 24-hour delivery to more than 300 cities in China and 72-hour delivery nationwide. As we increase the number of our fulfillment centers and upgrade our logistic management, fulfillment costs as a percentage of net revenue improved significantly – from 3.6% in Q4 2019 to 2.6% in Q4 2020. For the full year 2020, it improved from 3.3% to 2.8% YoY."

"In addition to pharmaceutical companies, market participants such as marketplace vendors, medicine distributors, CSO organizations, commercial medical insurance companies and others have significantly strengthened our supply chain platform. Coupled with the capabilities we have built out over the past few years we are in a very unique position to enable pharmacies and doctors to better service their customers. Doctors are able to enjoy our service modules of cloud clinic, cloud pharmacy, doctor-patient platform to digitally serve their patients in a manner never existed in the past. Today, pharmacies across the country can access a vast selection of medicine with volume-based pricing, supply chain financing, and a variety of SaaS based services on our platform which enable them to deliver greater user experience to their patients."

He continued, "Looking ahead to 2021, we will focus on strengthening every facet of our S2B2C model and advancing our strategic plan to expedite business expansion. We will continue to improve the AI and data processing capabilities of our technology to empower doctors and pharmacies. We will make significant investment in our technology to bring more services to retail pharmacies so that we can deepen our share of wallet. The platform's enhanced capability will also allow us to virtually deploy more digital medical reps to further improve the effectiveness of our commercialization capability and provide better tools to doctors so they can access the latest innovations in medical science."

"During 2020, we continued to build on our momentum and deepen our market positions through our main operating subsidiary, Yao Fang Shanghai, which has raised two rounds of financing that amounted to approximately USD142.8 million from third-party investors, with the second round financing at a pre-money valuation of RMB10 billion (US$1.5 billion) in connection with IPO on Shanghai Stock Exchange's Sci-Tech Innovation Board (STAR). Use of Non-GAAP Financial Measures

In evaluating the business, the Company considers and uses non-GAAP loss from operations, non-GAAP net loss attributable to ordinary shareholders, and non-GAAP loss per ADS, non-GAAP measures, as supplemental measures to review and assess its operating performance. The Company defines non-GAAP loss from operations as loss from operations excluding share-based compensation expenses. The Company defines non-GAAP net loss attributable to ordinary shareholders as net loss attributable to ordinary shareholders excluding share-based compensation expenses and impairment loss of long-term investment. The Company defines non-GAAP loss per ADS as loss per ADS excluding share-based compensation expenses and impairment loss of long-term investment per ADS. The presentation of these non-GAAP financial measures is not intended to be considered in isolation or as a substitute for the financial information prepared and presented in accordance with U.S. GAAP.

The Company believes that non-GAAP loss from operations, non-GAAP net loss attributable to ordinary shareholders, and non-GAAP loss per ADS help identify underlying trends in its business that could otherwise be distorted by the effect of certain expenses that it includes in loss from operations and net loss. Share-based compensation expenses is a non-cash expense that varies from period to period. Impairment loss of long-term investment is a non-cash, non-recurring expense that occurred in the historical period. As a result, management excludes these two items from its internal operating forecasts and models. Management believes that the adjustments for share-based compensation expenses and impairment loss of long-term investment provide investors with a reasonable basis to measure the company's core operating performance, in a more meaningful comparison with the performance of other companies. The Company believes that non-GAAP loss from operations, non-GAAP net loss attributable to ordinary shareholders, and non-GAAP loss per ADS provide useful information about its operating results, enhances the overall understanding of its past performance and future prospects and allow for greater visibility with respect to key metrics used by the management in their financial and operational decision-making.

The non-GAAP financial measures are not defined under U.S. GAAP and are not presented in accordance with U.S. GAAP. The non-GAAP financial measures have limitations as analytical tools. One of the key limitations of using non-GAAP loss from operations, non-GAAP net loss attributable to ordinary shareholders, or non-GAAP loss per ADS is that it does not reflect all items of income and expense that affect the Company's operations. Further, the non-GAAP financial measures may differ from the non-GAAP information used by other companies, including peer companies, and therefore their comparability may be limited.

The Company compensates for these limitations by reconciling the non-GAAP financial measures to the most comparable U.S. GAAP measures, all of which should be considered when evaluating the Company's performance. The Company encourages you to review its financial information in its entirety and not rely on a single financial measure.

Reconciliation of the non-GAAP financial measures to the most comparable U.S. GAAP measures is included at the end of this press release.
